REPORT ON THINK TANK ACTIVITY

Details about event:

Event: Think Tank Activity

Date of Event : 11th March, 2023

Time: 12.00 p.m.

Objectives:

- To Conduct in-depth research on various social, economic, scientific, and political issues to generate valuable insights and recommendations.
- To Analyze existing policies and propose innovative solutions to address emerging challenges and promote positive change.
- To Foster innovation by exploring new ideas, technologies, and approaches to tackle complex societal problems and enhance human well-being.

Description of event :

Think tanks serve as crucial hubs of research, analysis, and policy development, playing pivotal roles in shaping public discourse and informing decision-making processes across various sectors. With their interdisciplinary teams of experts, think tanks delve into complex societal challenges, offering innovative solutions and evidence-based insights to policymakers, stakeholders, and the public alike.

Think tanks are rapidly emerging and are becoming more commonly used in many fields of work, including academia. At this point, little is known about the use of think tanks in higher education to support faculty growth and organizational culture. However, based on the benefits of think tanks in other fields, it is likely that they could be used as a valuable tool to encourage relationships, promote faculty development, and inspire research collaborations. Although think tanks may be very useful in academia, many questions remain about the best way to adapt the structure to best suit faculty in academic institutions.

K.M.E.S College of Education had organized Think Tank Activity on 11th March, 2023. Session began with sharing the importance of Think Tank in academics and research work. Think tanks can be tailored to fit the individual needs of an academic institution or other healthcare setting so that they can be an effective tool for many different groups or situations where professionals with diverse backgrounds and perspectives work together. Institutions should individually decide the guidelines and expectations they would like to implement for think tanks but leave some decisions open to the group so that the needs of the participants are addressed appropriately. Based on the findings in this study, it is the recommendation of the authors that universities should consider offering think tank sessions to faculty in order to forge relationships and promote collaborative work, especially within multidisciplinary departments where faculty tend to isolate into their respective disciplines.

Outcome:

- Educating the Youth: Teachers are entrusted with the task of educating the youth, providing them with essential knowledge and skills needed to thrive in a rapidly evolving world. Through structured curricula and innovative teaching methods, they empower students to become literate, numerate, and proficient in various subjects, thereby laying the foundation for a knowledgeable society.
- Fostering Civic Values: Beyond academic instruction, teachers play a vital role in instilling civic values such as honesty, integrity, respect, and empathy. By promoting a culture of inclusivity, tolerance, and social responsibility within classrooms, they contribute to the development of conscientious citizens who value the common good and actively participate in community affairs.
- Nurturing Leadership and Innovation: Teachers have the power to identify and nurture leadership potential and innovative thinking among students.
